SUBJECT: Archives in Austria.

TO : Acting Deputy Director. Attn: Exec. Officer.

1. Submitted herewith, pursuant to Directive: "Archives in Austria," 13 February 1945, is a general list of offices in Austria with which the various Branches of Economics are concerned.

2. It is a basic premise that we are interested in all archives in the offices of economic import, including those of cartels and major business houses, economic chambers of commerce, statistical offices, mines and mine fields, oil companies and oil fields, shipping houses, etc.

3. We are specifically interested in the following:

Industry Branch

a. Below are listed the names and location of schools, official and private laboratories and private concerns, whose files should be of definite interest to various branches of Economics Divisions. In numbers of cases these concerns will not have special libraries in the strict sense of the word, but the information contained in these records should be carefully vetted by the Intelligence Branch.

This list does not contain the names and addresses of the obvious places such as the Gau Economic Chambers, etc.:

THE LIBRARIES

AUSTRIA

(1) Types of Libraries

I. State Libraries

a) General Research Libraries

1. The National Library, Vienna (formerly Imperial Library);
2. The University Libraries of Vienna, Graz, Innsbruck;
3. The (provincial) Public Research Libraries (Oeffentliche Studienbibliotheken) of Linz, Klagenfurt, Salzburg;
4. Bibliotheca Theresiana (Library of the Teresia Academy) , Vienna.

b) Specialized Libraries

1. of Institutes of Higher Education:

The libraries of the Technical Colleges of Vienna and Graz; the Mining College, Graz-Leoben; Veterinary College, Vienna; College of Agriculture and Forestry, Vienna; College of International Trade, Vienna; Academy of Fine Arts, Vienna; Music Academy, Vienna; Consular Academy, Vienna;

2. of Scientific Institutions:

The libraries of the Academy of Sciences; the Geological Institute; the Geographical Society; the Austrian Museum for Industry and Art; the Fine Arts Museum; the Natural Science Museum; the Ethnological Museum; the Technical Museum for Industry and Trade; the War Archives Library, all in Vienna;

c) Administrative Libraries of Federal Government Departments and Offices in Vienna:

The libraries of the Ministries of the Interior; Foreign Affairs (Federal Chancellery); Finance; Commerce; Public Works; Social Administration; Justice; Education; Patent Office; Office of Statistics; Federal Railroad Administration; Parliament Library; The Archives Library.

II. Provincial (Municipal) Libraries

a) General Research Libraries

The Public Research Libraries of the City of Vienna; Lower Austria (Vienna); Graz [Joanneum] (Styria); Innsbruck (Tyrol);

b) Specialized Libraries

The Central Educational Library of the City of Vienna; the Museum Libraries in Linz, Salzburg, Innsbruck.

End #1

The Libraries of Austria

III. Libraries of Organizations and Learned Societies, all in Vienna:

- a) The Public Libraries of Associations for Popular Education (neutral, Catholic, Social-democratic, unified after 1934);
- b) the specialized libraries of the Chamber of Commerce, Trade and Industry; the Chamber of Labor; the Association of Engineers and Architects; the Corporation of Merchants; the Juridical-Political Club; the Geographical Society; the Medical Society; the Society of the Friends of Music.

IV. Convent (and other denominational) Libraries (rich in medieval manuscripts, incunabula, rare books):

In Vienna, the libraries of the Benedictine ("Scotch") Convent; The Mechitarian (Armenian) Congregation; the Servite, Minorite, Dominican monasteries; the library of the Clerical Seminar of the Arch-Diocese of Vienna; the library of the Jewish Congregation; in Lower Austria, the libraries of monasteries at Seitenstetten, Heiligenkreuz, Klosterneuburg, Melk, Goettweig, Zwettl; in Upper Austria, the libraries of the monasteries of Schlaegl, Kremsmuenster, St. Florian; in the other provinces, St. Paul (Carinthia); Admont, Vorau (Styria); St. Peter (Salzburg); Feldkirch (Vorarlberg).

V. Private-owned Libraries (of the former nobility, scholars, and collectors):

Liechtenstein, Harrach (Vienna), Seilern (Schoenbuehel a.d. Donau, Lower Austria); Cumberland Gmunden, Upper Austria); Thurn und Taxis (Innsbruck); Rosthorn, Portheim, Obersteiner, Redlich (Vienna).

A Card Index of the Austrian Libraries, compiled by the author of this report, lists 120 libraries, not counting the libraries of the Associations for Popular Education, and the libraries of the higher (secondary) schools in Vienna and in the provinces, some of which are very remarkable.

In Austria, there are about ten million books, more than seven million of which being in Vienna (i.e. about 2/3 of the library holdings of the old Austrian Monarchy); in addition 240.000 manuscripts, and autographs, 28.000 incunabula, 84.000 papyri, 550.000 prints, and 400.000 maps.

(2) Administration

All State Libraries are administered by the Government, the governing authority being the Federal Ministry of Education. A special Consultant in Library Science and Administration in the Ministry of Education serves as a liaison officer between the libraries and the department of the Ministry of Education in charge of the library agenda.

The Provincial Libraries (Landesbibliotheken) are administered by the respective Provincial Governments (Landesregierungen). It may be noted that the Municipality of Vienna, the capital of the Federal Republic of Austria, and also the seat of the administration of Lower Austria, had, by the Constitution, the position of a Province (Land), equal to the other provinces of Austria (Lower Austria, Upper Austria, etc.), with a provincial government of its own, headed by the Mayor of Vienna.

The Libraries of Austria

The libraries of organizations and learned societies, and the Convent libraries are self-administering, apart from general supervision by the Ministry of Education or provincial authorities.

An administrative relationship of the Austrian libraries exists through an interlibrary loan service, based upon an Office for Locating and Promoting books (Buechernachweisstelle) of the Austrian Libraries, established in 1920 at the National Library in Vienna. It also cooperates with the Information Bureau (Auskunftsbureau) in Berlin. Its ultimate aim is a Union Catalog of the Austrian Libraries. A Union Catalog of Serials is, by now, probably completed. An exchange of duplicates within Austrian and with German libraries has also been organized. (See Note, p. 5.)

(3) Library Policies

The general policies of the State and Provincial Libraries were directed by their purposes and aims as general research libraries, ~~public (popular) libraries~~ or specialized libraries, under the - professional and political - supervision of the governing authorities, changing in their attitude with the political turns in 1934 and in 1938 respectively.

The Public Libraries of the various associations for popular education developed their policies according to their political or social ideology, e.g. neutral (liberal), catholic, social-democratic. These, too, were brought under a common denominator in 1934 and, again, in 1938.

The libraries of professional and learned societies, as those of the convents and monasteries were in their policies led by their special purposes, and, more or less, untouched by political changes (less in 1938).

(4) Sources of Income

The State and Provincial Libraries are staffed and maintained by the Federal and Provincial Governments respectively. A certain - not fixed - amount is made available in the annual budget for new accessions, bindings, etc. The National Library, e.g., received in 1937 S (Schilling) 100000 for accessions, S 18000 for bindings, S 35000 for other requirements; in 1938, after the annexation, RM (Reichsmark) 60000, 16000, 29000, respectively, the rate of exchange being 2 Schilling equivalent to 1 Reichsmark. The University Library in Vienna received in 1937 S 168000, in 1938 RM 104000.

The libraries of organizations, learned societies, and convent libraries were, generally speaking, self-supporting, as were the Public Libraries for Popular Education, which, however, received some financial help (subvention) from the Federal and Provincial Governments and from private - party and individual - sources.

(5) Internal Organization

The major General Research Libraries and the Specialized Libraries have a staff of specialists for the main fields, for which a Doctor's degree is required, besides the state examination in Library Science (see below (6)). They are responsible for developing the collections by selective recommendations and for the reference work they are assigned to. They also supervise cataloging and assist readers in more complicated matters with bibliographical information. The National Library in Vienna has, owing to the nature and importance of the respective holdings a Portrait, Music, Theatre, Manuscript, Map, Print, Papyrus Collection, headed by specialist chiefs.

Routine work in cataloging, custodial and loan service, service to the readers, are subprofessional, clerical work, messenger service, maintenance of the buildings and premises, non-professional services of the libraries.

(6) Categories of Personnel

In 1929 an examination for the scientific (higher professional) and intermediate (lower, or, subprofessional) library service was established for the service in State Libraries.

The preparation for the scientific library service for which a doctor's degree is a condition lasts two years. It consists of library practice in the various branches of the library service, the last six months of which have to be served in in the National Library in Vienna, of lectures and seminars in Library Science in the Universities of Vienna or Graz, and Courses and lectures held by librarians in a major library. The examination entitles to any position on the scientific (academic) staff of the library, the ranks of which, to be reached by promotion in due time, are Unterstaatsbibliothekar, Staatsbibliothekar, Oberstaatsbibliothekar, Direktor-Stellvertreter, Direktor. The Chief Librarian of the National Library in Vienna has the title Generaldirektor. The National Library has, besides, positions of chiefs of the special collections, the Portrait-, Theatre-, Music-, Manuscript-, Map-, Print-, Papyrus-Collections.

The examination for the intermediate library service for which the graduation from a Secondary School (equivalent to Junior College) and a working knowledge of two foreign (classic or modern) languages is required, can be taken after 1 1/2 years of preparation by practice in library routine work and attending courses in the elements of library science for six months in a major library.

Accordingly the categories of personnel are 1) Scientific Personnel (higher professional), 2) Intermediate Personnel (lower professional), 3) Non-professional Personnel (clerks, messengers, etc.).

The National Library in Vienna had in 1938 in group 1) 23 (6 positions not filled, owing to the political changes), in group 2) 12, in group 3) 17 clerical, 38 other non-professional. The University Library in Vienna had in group 1) 20, in groups 2) and 3) (clerical) 11, in other non-professional groups 27.

The Libraries of Austria

The provincial and other - smaller - libraries have , on a more simplified scale principally adopted the same system.

(7) General Statement, regarding Nazism in Library Personnel

Generally speaking, there may still be among the older employees such as are not died-in-the-wool Nazis, those who served in the times of the Austrian Monarchy and under the Republic. They, ~~probably~~, had to retire in 1938. The younger generation, appointed in the period of the rise of Nazism, from about 1930 till 1938, may be doubtful. There were probably more, open or secret, Nazis among the ranks of the scientific (academic) services , than in the lower strata. After the annexation, only Nazis were appointed, and most of the older employees dismissed.

LIST OF ARCHIVES

Introductory Notes

1. The following list is intended primarily to secure the preservation of archives of permanent interest; and is arranged accordingly. Attention, however, is drawn to the very great immediate interest and importance for Intelligence and Military Government purposes of those indicated in paragraphs 4 and 5 of the present Introductory Notes.

2. The following points are to be noted:

a. It has been impossible in this list to specify all accumulations of archives, since those of certain types are far too numerous.

b. Only experts can decide whether any particular papers are of value.

c. Written papers (unlike printed ones) are unique. Once destroyed, they cannot be replaced.

d. Since any single accumulation consists of related papers, its value may be destroyed almost as effectively by dispersal or by the loss of one or two papers as by total destruction.

3. Chief Types of Archives.

The principal varieties of Public Administration and Business producing archives of importance which figure individually in the present list are as follows:

a. Public Administration by Reich Government, through Ministries and other offices, with their various Sections and Departments, in Berlin, and their District Offices in Vienna and other large towns. The archives of Public Authorities before the "Anschluss" are presumably either with the new bodies which have taken over their functions or (the older ones) in the Haus -, Hof-und Staatsarchiv at Vienna.

b. Provincial Administration. Archives of the older Austrian organization are to be found in the Landesarchiv in each of the nine Länder; though some of their more modern documents, taken over along with the functions they represent, are doubtless with the authorities of the seven modern German Reichsgaue* headed by the Reichsstatthalter.

c. Legal Administration (again assimilated in recent years to the German model) includes the Supreme or High Courts (in Berlin and one or two other towns) and the Courts of Appeal, etc., ("Oberlandesgerichte" and, below these, "Landgerichte") in large towns. The modern archives are preserved at the courts concerned, the older in Landesarchive. It is to be noted that the "Landgerichte" represent Austrian Courts called alternatively "Landesgerichte" or "Kreisgerichte" and may retain those names.

d. Police administration, at all the above-mentioned levels; archives in offices concerned.

e. Town Administration, ancient and modern "Stadtarchiv", generally in Rathaus in every town of importance.

f. Nazi Party Administration, through Head Offices (in Vienna and elsewhere), Chief District Offices ("Gaue") and District H.Q. of "Hitler Jugend", "S.S.", etc.

* i.e. Wien; Nieder- and Ober-Donau (formerly N. and O-Österreich); Kärnten; Salzburg; Steiermark; and Tirol-Vorarlberg. The above are seven of the ancient Länder, the Gau of Wien having been cut out of Nieder-Donau; modern re-arrangement has divided the eighth - Burgenland - between Nieder-Donau and Steiermark.

F O R W A R D

Every military government activity in Austria will entail the use of Austrian public documents, business papers, files and records of every kind, official and unofficial. Military, political, administrative, business, historical and cultural interests will be equally concerned with them. The preservation of such records and files is of the utmost importance for the successful operation of military government and the subsequent formation of a central Austrian administration, followed by an Austrian government.

The following list of Archives is issued for the information of Military Government Officers and Monuments, Arts and Archives Specialist Officers. It is intended for use in connection with Chapter 14 of "Handbook for Military Government in Austria".

g. Semi-Public Administration, i.e., that of Institutions which, though private in origin, do work of a public character; such as Universities and Educational or Charitable Institutes, great Banks and Insurance Companies, Public Utility Companies and large Industrial Concerns. Archives normally preserved at Head Offices.

h. Private Administration whether by Individuals or Bodies; archives most frequently listed here are those of Families possessing or having once possessed large estates and considerable control of local government; generally preserved at Family Seat ("Schloss").

i. Church Administration: Higher Authorities both of Roman Catholic and of Lutheran and other Protestant Commissions: archives preserved at Seats of Dioceses and of "Landeskirchen"; also in Cathedral Chapters and important Monasteries of which Austria should contain still a considerable number. Also archives at a few Jewish Centres.

4. Important Archives not set out individually in the List.

a. LOWER COURTS OF LAW ("AMTSGERICHTER"): known under Austrian organization as "Bezirksgerichte". Their archives include, besides Court Records, those of the Land Registry ("Grundbücher") and the Registers of Cooperatives ("Genossenschafts-register"), Merchants, Firms, etc. ("Handels-register") and Non-Profit Associations ("Vereinsregister").

b. LOWER DIVISIONS OF LOCAL ADMINISTRATION, Rural and Urban ("LANDKREISE" and "STADTKREISE"). Besides the archives of ordinary District Administration kept at the office of the Landrat or Oberbürgermeister, the Stadtkreis or the Chief Town of a Landkreis will contain the Land Survey ("Katasteramt") and Police H.Q.; and normally the local Offices and Registers of Finance and Taxation ("Finanzamt", "Kammerei", "Rechnungsamt"); Food Administration ("Ernährungsamt"); Price Administration; Labor Administration ("Arbeitsamt"); Births, Deaths and Marriages ("Standesamt"); Voters, ("Wahlamt"); and Social Insurance ("Wohlfahrtsamt") all of considerable immediate importance.

c. NAZI PARTY ORGANIZATIONS, whose archives will normally be found in the Party Offices of "GAU", "KREIS", or "GEMEINDE". Examples are: N.S. People's Welfare Organization ("N.S. Volkswohlfahrt"); Winter Help Organization ("Winterhilfswerk"); Central Office for War Victims ("Hauptamt für Kriegsoffer"); N.S. Motor Corps ("NSKK") and N.S. Flying Corps ("NSFK").

5. Archives too numerous to be listed.

Note particularly the possible importance of those of

a. smaller Towns or Communes and Parishes ("Gemeinden"); which include the Registers of Births, Marriages and Deaths, both Civil and Ecclesiastical;

b. the smaller Local Offices of Food and Labor Registration; of Police, where will be found important personal Records ("Meldescheine", "Volkskartei", and "Kennkarte"); and of the Post, Finance (Taxation) and other divisions of Government;

c. all Notaries; whose collections cover the Records of Private Contracts and Business of all kinds and go back in some cases to very early dates;

d. Branch Offices of Reichsbank and Head Offices of other Banks and

e. any considerable Commercial or Industrial Organizations.

6. Archives evacuated or destroyed.

It is to be expected that the information as to addresses furnished by this List may in many cases have been rendered incorrect by military operations; but two points are particularly to be noted.

a. It is not to be assumed because a building is in ruins that the archives stored in it (possibly in a specially protected room or safe, possibly even without that precaution) may not be intact beneath the debris.

b. Any information which can be obtained from Local Officials, etc. in regard to Listed archives which have been evacuated in whole or in part, or copies of which have been deposited elsewhere, may be most valuable.

LIST OF ARCHIVES

Introductory Notes

1. The following list is intended primarily to secure the preservation of archives of permanent interest; and is arranged accordingly. Attention, however, is drawn to the very great immediate interest and importance for Intelligence and Military Government purposes of those indicated in paragraphs 4 and 5 of the present Introductory Notes.

2. The following points are to be noted:

a. It has been impossible in this list to specify all accumulations of archives, since those of certain types are far too numerous.

b. Only experts can decide whether any particular papers are of value.

c. Written papers (unlike printed ones) are unique. Once destroyed, they cannot be replaced.

d. Since any single accumulation consists of related papers, its value may be destroyed almost as effectively by dispersal or by the loss of one or two papers as by total destruction.

3. Chief Types of Archives.

The principal varieties of Public Administration and Business producing archives of importance which figure individually in the present list are as follows:

a. Public Administration by Reich Government, through Ministries and other offices, with their various Sections and Departments, in Berlin, and their District Offices in Vienna and other large towns. The archives of Public Authorities before the "Anschluss" are presumably either with the new bodies which have taken over their functions or (the older ones) in the Haus --, Hof- und Staatsarchiv at Vienna.

b. Provincial Administration. Archives of the older Austrian organization are to be found in the Landesarchiv in each of the nine Länder; though some of their more modern documents, taken over along with the functions they represent, are doubtless with the authorities of the seven modern German Reichsgaue* headed by the Reichsstatthalter.

c. Legal Administration (again assimilated in recent years to the German model) includes the Supreme or High Courts (in Berlin and one or two other towns) and the Courts of Appeal, etc. ("Oberlandesgerichte" and, below these, "Landgerichte") in large towns. The modern archives are preserved at the courts concerned, the older in Landesarchive. It is to be noted that the "Landgerichte" represent Austrian Courts called alternatively "Landesgerichte" or "Kreisgerichte" and may retain those names.

d. Police Administration, at all the above-mentioned levels; archives in offices concerned.

e. Town Administration, ancient and modern "Stadtarchiv", generally in Rathaus in every town of importance.

f. Nazi Party Administration, through Head Offices (in Vienna and elsewhere), Chief District Offices ("Gaue") and District H.Q. of "Hitler Jugend", "S.S.", etc.

* i.e. Wien; Nieder- and Ober-Donau (formerly N. and O-Österreich); Kärnten; Salzburg; Steiermark; and Tirol-Vorarlberg. The above are seven of the ancient Länder, the Gau of Wien having been cut out of Nieder-Donau; modern re-arrangement has divided the eighth - Burgenland - between Nieder-Donau and Steiermark.

g. Semi-Public Administration. i.e., that of Institutions which, though private in origin, do work of a public character, such as Universities and Educational or Charitable Institutes, great Banks and Insurance Companies, Public Utility Companies and large Industrial Concerns. Archives normally preserved at Head Offices.

h. Private Administration whether by Individuals or Bodies; archives most frequently listed here are those of Families possessing or having once possessed large estates and considerable control of local government; generally preserved at Family Seat ("Schloss").

i. Church Administration: Higher Authorities both of Roman Catholic and of Lutheran and other Protestant Commissions; archives preserved at Seats of Dioceses and of "Landeskirchen"; also in Cathedral Chapters and important Monasteries of which Austria should contain still a considerable number. Also archives at a few Jewish Centres.

4. Important Archives not set out individually in the List.

a. LOWER COURTS OF LAW ("AMTSGERICHTS") known under Austrian organization as "Bezirksgerichte". Their archives include, besides Court Records, those of the Land Registry ("Grundbücher") and the Registers of Cooperatives ("Genossenschaftsregister"), Merchants, Firms, etc. ("Handelsregister") and Non-Profit Associations ("Vereinsregister").

b. LOWER DIVISIONS OF LOCAL ADMINISTRATION, Rural and Urban ("LANDKREISE" and "STADTKREISE"). Besides the archives of ordinary District Administration kept at the office of the Landrat or Oberbürgermeister, the Stadtkreis or the Chief Town of a Landkreis will contain the Land Survey ("Katasteramt") and Police H.Q.; and normally the local Offices and Registers of Finance and Taxation ("Finanzamt", "Kammerei", "Rechnungsamt"); Food Administration ("Ernährungsamt"); Price Administration; Labor Administration ("Arbeitsamt"); Births, Deaths and Marriages ("Standesamt"); Voters, ("Wahlamt"); and Social Insurance ("Wohlfahrtsamt") all of considerable immediate importance.

c. NAZI PARTY ORGANIZATIONS, whose archives will normally be found in the Party Offices of "GAU", "KREIS", or "GEMEINDE". Examples are: -N.S. People's Welfare Organization ("N.S. Volkswohlfahrt"); Winter Help Organization ("Winterhilfswerk"); Central Office for War Victims ("Hauptamt für Kriegsoffer"); N.S. Motor Corps ("NSKK") and N.S. Flying Corps ("NSFK").

5. Archives too numerous to be listed.

Note particularly the possible importance of those of

a. smaller Towns or Communes and Parishes ("Gemeinden"); which include the Registers of Births, Marriages and Deaths, both Civil and Ecclesiastical;

b. the smaller Local Offices of Food and Labor Registration; of Police, where will be found important personal Records ("Meldescheine", "Volkskartei", and "Kennkarte"); and of the Post, Finance (Taxation) and other divisions of Government;

c. all Notaries; whose collections cover the Records of Private Contracts and Business of all kinds and go back in some cases to very early dates;

d. Branch Offices of Reichsbank and Head Offices of other Banks and

e. any considerable Commercial or Industrial Organizations.

6. Archives evacuated or destroyed.

It is to be expected that the information as to addresses furnished by this List may in many cases have been rendered incorrect by military operations; but two points are particularly to be noted.

a. It is not to be assumed because a building is in ruins that the archives stored in it (possibly in a specially protected room or safe, possibly even without that precaution) may not be intact beneath the debris.

b. Any information which can be obtained from Local Officials, etc. in regard to listed archives which have been evacuated in whole or in part, or copies of which have been deposited elsewhere, may be most valuable.

Every military government activity in Austria will entail the use of Austrian public documents, business papers, files and records of every kind, official and unofficial. Military, political, administrative, business, historical and cultural interests will be equally concerned with them. The preservation of such records and files is of the utmost importance for the successful operation of military government and the subsequent formation of a central Austrian administration, followed by an Austrian government.

The following list of Archives is issued for the information of Military Government Officers and Monuments, Arts and Archives Specialist Officers. It is intended for use in connection with Chapter 14 of "Handbook for Military Government in Austria".

LIST OF ARCHIVES

Introductory Notes

1. The following list is intended primarily to secure the preservation of archives of permanent interest; and is arranged accordingly. Attention, however, is drawn to the very great immediate interest and importance for Intelligence and Military Government purposes of those indicated in paragraphs 4 and 5 of the present Introductory Notes.

2. The following points are to be noted:

a. It has been impossible in this list to specify all accumulations of archives, since those of certain types are far too numerous.

b. Only experts can decide whether any particular papers are of value.

c. Written papers (unlike printed ones) are unique. Once destroyed, they cannot be replaced.

d. Since any single accumulation consists of related papers, its value may be destroyed almost as effectively by dispersal or by the loss of one or two papers as by total destruction.

3. Chief Types of Archives.

The principal varieties of Public Administration and Business producing archives of importance which figure individually in the present list are as follows:

a. Public Administration by Reich Government, through Ministries and other offices, with their various Sections and Departments, in Berlin, and their District Offices in Vienna and other large towns. The archives of Public Authorities before the "Anschluss" are presumably either with the new bodies which have taken over their functions or (the older ones) in the Haus -, Hof-und Staatsarchiv at Vienna.

b. Provincial Administration. Archives of the older Austrian organization are to be found in the Landesarchiv in each of the nine Länder; though some of their more modern documents, taken over along with the functions they represent, are doubtless with the authorities of the seven modern German Reichsgaue* headed by the Reichsstatthalter.

c. Legal Administration (again assimilated in recent years to the German model) includes the Supreme or High Courts (in Berlin and one or two other towns) and the Courts of Appeal, etc. ("Oberlandesgerichte" and, below these, "Landgerichte") in large towns. The modern archives are preserved at the courts concerned, the older in Landesarchive. It is to be noted that the "Landgerichte" represent Austrian Courts called alternatively "Landesgerichte" or "Kreisgerichte" and may retain those names.

d. Police administration, at all the above-mentioned levels; archives in offices concerned.

e. Town Administration, ancient and modern "Stadtarchiv", generally in Rathaus in every town of importance.

f. Nazi Party Administration, through Head Offices (in Vienna and elsewhere), Chief District Offices ("Gaue") and District H.Q. of "Hitler Jugend", "S.S.", etc.

* i.e. Wien; Nieder- and Ober-Donau (formerly N. and O-Österreich); Kärnten; Salzburg; Steiermark; and Tirol-Vorarlberg. The above are seven of the ancient Länder, the Gau of Wien having been cut out of Nieder-Donau; modern re-arrangement has divided the eighth - Burgenland - between Nieder-Donau and Steiermark.

g. b. LOWER DIVISIONS OF LOCAL ADMINISTRATION, Rural and Urban ("LANDKREISE" and "STADTKREISE"). Besides the archives of ordinary District Administration kept at the office of the Landrat or Oberbürgermeister, the Stadtkreis or the Chief Town of a Landkreis will contain the Land Survey ("Katasteramt") and Police H.Q.; and normally the local Offices and Registers of Finance and Taxation ("Finanzamt", "Kammerei", "Rechnungsamt"); Food Administration ("Ernährungsamt"); Price Administration; Labor Administration ("Arbeitsamt"); Births, Deaths and Marriages ("Standesamt"); Voters, ("Wahlamt"); and Social Insurance ("Wohlfahrtsamt") all of considerable immediate importance.

c. NAZI PARTY ORGANIZATIONS, whose archives will normally be found in the Party Offices of "GAU", "KREIS", or "GEMEINDE". Examples are: N.S. People's Welfare Organization ("N.S. The principal varieties of Public Administration and Business producing archives of importance which figure individually in the present list are as follows:

a. Public Administration by Reich Government, through Ministries and other offices, with their various Sections and Departments, in Berlin, and their District Offices in Vienna and other large towns. The archives of Public Authorities before the "Anschluss" are presumably either with the new bodies which have taken over their functions or (the older ones) in the Haus -, Hof-und Staatsarchiv at Vienna.

b. Provincial Administration. Archives of the older Austrian organization are to be found in the Landesarchiv in each of the nine Länder; though some of their more modern documents, taken over along with the functions they represent, are doubtless with the authorities of the seven modern German Reichsgaue* headed by the Reichsstatthalter.

c. Legal Administration (again assimilated in recent years to the German model) includes the Supreme or High Courts (in Berlin and one or two other towns) and the Courts of Appeal, etc., ("Oberlandesgerichte" and, below these, "Landgerichte") in large towns. The modern archives are preserved at the courts concerned, the older in Landesarchive. It is to be noted that the "Landgerichte" represent Austrian Courts called alternatively "Landesgerichte" or "Kreisgerichte" and may retain those names.

d. Police administration, at all the above-mentioned levels; archives in offices concerned.

e. Town Administration, ancient and modern "Stadtarchiv", generally in Rathaus in every town of importance.

f. Nazi Party Administration, through Head Offices (in Vienna and elsewhere), Chief District Offices ("Gaue") and District H.Q. of "Hitler Jugend", "S.S.", etc.

* i.e. Wien; Nieder- and Ober-Donau (formerly N. and O-Österreich); Kärnten; Salzburg; Steiermark; and Tirol-Vorarlberg. The above are seven of the ancient Länder, the Gau of Wien having been cut out of Nieder-Donau; modern re-arrangement has divided the eighth - Burgenland - between Nieder-Donau and Steiermark.

g. Semi-Public Administration. i.e., that of Institutions which, though private in origin, do work of a public character such as Universities and Educational or Charitable Institutes, great Banks and Insurance Companies, Public Utility Companies and large Industrial Concerns. Archives normally preserved at Head Offices.

n. Private Administration whether by Individuals or Bodies; archives most frequently listed here are those of Families possessing or having once possessed large estates and considerable control of local government; generally preserved at Family Seat ("Schloss").

i. Church Administration: Higher Authorities both of Roman Catholic and of Lutheran and other Protestant Commissions; archives preserved at Seats of Dioceses and of "Landeskirchen"; also in Cathedral Chapters and important Monasteries of which Austria should contain still a considerable number. Also archives at a few Jewish Centres.

4. Important Archives not set out individually in the List.

a. LOWER COURTS OF LAW ("AMTSGERICHTE") : known under Austrian organization as "Bezirksgerichte". Their archives include, besides Court Records, those of the Land Registry ("Grundbücher") and the Registers of Cooperatives ("Genossenschafts-register"), Merchants, Firms, etc. ("Handels-register") and Non-Profit Associations ("Vereinsregister").

b. LOWER DIVISIONS OF LOCAL ADMINISTRATION, Rural and Urban ("LANDKREISE" and "STADTKREISE"). Besides the archives of ordinary District Administration kept at the office of the Landrat or Oberbürgermeister, the Stadtkreis or the Chief Town of a Landkreis will contain the Land Survey ("Katasteramt") and Police H.Q.; and normally the local Offices and Registers of Finance and Taxation ("Finanzamt", "Kammerei", "Rechnungsamt"); Food Administration ("Ernährungsamt"); Price Administration; Labor Administration ("Arbeitsamt"); Births, Deaths and Marriages ("Standesamt"); Voters, ("Wahlamt"); and Social Insurance ("Wohlfahrtsamt") all of considerable immediate importance.

c. NAZI PARTY ORGANIZATIONS, whose archives will normally be found in the Party Offices of "GAU", "KREIS", or "GEMEINDE". Examples are:-N.S. People's Welfare Organization ("N.S. Volkswohlfahrt"); Winter Help Organization ("Winterhilfswerk"); Central Office for War Victims ("Hauptamt für Kriegsoffer"); N.S. Motor Corps ("NSKK") and N.S. Flying Corps ("NSFK").

5. Archives too numerous to be listed.

Note particularly the possible importance of those of

a. smaller Towns or Communes and Parishes ("Gemeinden"); which include the Registers of Births, Marriages and Deaths, both Civil and Ecclesiastical;

b. the smaller Local Offices of Food and Labor Registration; of Police, where will be found important personal Records ("Meldescheine", "Volkskartei", and "Kennkarte"); and of the Post, Finance (Taxation) and other divisions of Government;

c. all Notaries; whose collections cover the Records of Private Contracts and Business of all kinds and go back in some cases to very early dates;

d. Branch Offices of Reichsbank and Head Offices of other Banks and

e. any considerable Commercial or Industrial Organizations.

6. Archives evacuated or destroyed.

It is to be expected that the information as to addresses furnished by this List may in many cases have been rendered incorrect by military operations; but two points are particularly to be noted.

a. It is not to be assumed because a building is in ruins that the archives stored in it (possibly in a specially protected room or safe, possibly even without that precaution) may not be intact beneath the debris.

b. Any information which can be obtained from Local Officials, etc. in regard to listed archives which have been evacuated in whole or in part, or copies of which have been deposited elsewhere, may be most valuable.
